Health options: Students need to utilize Wellness Center

By KATRINA SMITH

General Education Curriculum is a way for students to develop critical thinking and problem solving skills. Some students at Pearl River Community College (PRCC) are trying to cut costs by not registering for classes and attending. This is allowing them to get their education. The students are not learning from the teachers and community. “We’re trying to develop our students,” said the professor. “They need to develop self-reflection skills and they need to develop their skills. It’s important for the student to develop their skills.”

PRCC graduate publishes in PTK book

PRCC alumnus Carolyn Lucas will have a feature pub- lished in the Phi Theta Kappa's honor anthology. The piece, entitled "The Pilgrim," will be in the antholo- gy about the writer and distributed to all community college students and PTK lead- ers.

"I was excited... I was so excited," Lucas said about reading the email notifying her that her writing would be published. Lucas graduated from PRCC in 2013. She was a member of PTK and Sigma Kappa Delta English honor society and was selected because of her Supplemental Instruction instructor and a Student Success instructor and an Adjunct Faculty instructor this semester at the Forrest County Center. Her writing was also selected for competi- tion in the 2012 Southern Literary Annual.

She is attending the University of Southern Mississippi as a member of the USM Honors College. Her class schedule and job at Georgia Power company have limited her writing time.

“Mrs. Holden was a member of the college faculty for 42 years,” he said. “She served as the first administrator of the Mississippi Supreme Court’s Building Fund for the Arts, the commission that would become the National Endowment for the Arts.

Brownstone Center celebration

“Mr. Brownstone is the man of the hour,” said director Tom Pearson. “Without his diligent legal efforts, this facility might never have been constructed.”

Brownstone Center celebration

The Brownstone Center for the Arts, located in the old Ethel Holden Brownstone, is the premiere arts venue in the Pearl River County area. It is home to numerous musical and theatrical performances, as well as educational programs.

Brownstone Center celebration

“The creative economy has never been more vital than today in the communities across Mississippi,” said director Tom Pearson. “The arts can be a powerful tool in assisting those organizations to continue their work, whether that be in enhancing the value of the arts and the creative economy or in supporting the arts education.”

... Jimmy Buffett a part of this year’s halftime show

POPULARVILLE — Singer Jimmy Buffett’s voice returned to Pearl River Community College for the first part of the college’s halftime show.

Buffett performed in a special section for the show which features the music he made famous long after he attended the college.

“Jimmy Buffett fans have been waiting a long time to hear him perform live, so we are thrilled that he agreed to do so,” said Dr. Kyle Tyler, president of the college.

“Buffett is a national icon whose music has been enjoyed by millions of people for decades,” said Blakely Thompson, the college’s band director.

The band performed several songs written by Buffett, including “Margaritaville,” “Island in the Sun” and “Mile Marker 305.”

Buffett also contributed to the show by signing a few of the college’s music awards in honor of the performance.

“Buffett’s music is a staple of our college’s history and culture,” said Thompson.

The performance concluded with the student body singing along to Buffett’s hit song “Cheeseburger in Paradise.”

Buffett’s appearance was part of the college’s halftime show for its annual Homecoming celebration.

The college’s halftime show also featured performances by the college’s cheerleading squad, the college’s dance team, and the college’s choir.

The show lasted approximately an hour and a half and was attended by hundreds of students, faculty, and staff.
Residence hall assistant meetings with head residents before closing the buildings. In addition to the staff members that have already returned, there are still many people left to report for the start of the school year. Students are encouraged to report to their dorms starting Saturday, Aug. 31.

The Baptist Student Union has a great deal to offer in the way of nurturance, social events, and opportunities to serve other students. BSU Encounter is a weekly fellowship meeting and devotion. It is a student-led fellowship and devotion. It is at 6:33 p.m. on Mondays in the Baptist Student Union, which is the large room of the Student Union building. Students and staff are invited.

For now, I'll focus on events at PRCC. I have noticed some impressive events that are planned for the fall semester. One of the biggest events is the Annual Gala on Oct. 18. Other weekly BSU events include 6:33 Bible study at 6:33 p.m. every Monday and Late Night Open House, which is a study of the Bible of Moses at 8 p.m. on each Wednesday. Beginning in October, BSU plans to offer other events, such as movie nights and other social events.

Welcome Back to the new school year. I hope it's off to a great start.

I got some great ideas for articles this year. I want to feature the students and staff and make them feel appreciated. I want to feature people with disabilities and make them feel included. I want to feature students who are successful and feature students who are struggling. I want to feature students who are new to the school and feature students who have been here for a long time.
